

This film is about a sacred journey to the holy place of Mayapur, India. People come here to live, offer their prayers and meditate. For centuries this tract of land has been worshiped as sacred. The Ganges river supplies a constant flow of water and the temples are always filled with songs and offerings to God.